

Future Skills Legacy Fund

Leaving a Bequest to ATEC

Changing People's Lives – for generations to come

A Legacy That Shapes the Future

For almost 40 years, ATEC has helped thousands of South Australians build skilled careers and stronger futures. By leaving a bequest in your will, you can ensure that future generations continue to benefit from quality training, modern equipment, and opportunities that transform lives.

Your legacy becomes part of ATEC's quest to Change People's Lives.

What Is a Bequest?

A bequest is a gift left to ATEC in your will. It is a simple, powerful way to make a lasting difference. You may choose to bequeath:

- A specific sum of money
- A percentage of your estate
- A particular asset (property, shares, etc.)
- The residue of your estate after other gifts are made

Every bequest—large or small—directly supports skills development in South Australia.

How Your Legacy Helps

Your gift strengthens ATEC's long-term capacity by supporting:

- State-of-the-art tools and equipment
- New learning facilities and workshop upgrades
- Training innovations that prepare apprentices for the future
- Programs that assist young people entering skilled trades

The Future Skills Legacy Fund ensures your support continues to have impact for years to come.

Unrestricted or Directed Gifts

You may choose to leave:

Unrestricted Bequest

Allows ATEC to direct your gift to areas of greatest need.

Restricted Bequest

Supports a specific purpose that matters to you.

ATEC will work with you to ensure your wishes can be honoured.

How to Include ATEC in Your Will

Including ATEC in your will is simple.

You may use the following suggested wording when speaking with your solicitor or adviser:

“I give the sum of $____ or ____% of my estate / the residue of my estate / the following asset: _____ to ATEC (Adelaide Training and Employment Centre) ABN 58 209 574 933, to be used for its general purposes or as agreed with my executors.”

We recommend seeking independent legal advice when preparing or updating your will.

Letting Us Know (Optional)

If you choose to include ATEC in your will, you may notify us by completing a Bequest Intention Form available on our website.

This is not compulsory, but it allows us to thank you and ensure your wishes are understood.

All information you provide is treated with strict confidentiality.

Thank You for Considering a Legacy Gift

A bequest is an extraordinary act of generosity.

Your legacy will help ensure that South Australians continue to gain the skills, confidence and opportunities they need for fulfilling careers in the trades.

Together, we can help future generations thrive.

Contact Us

To discuss your intentions confidentially, contact ATEC via any of the methods below:

ATEC – Future Skills Legacy Fund

Phone: 1300 112 832

Email: humanresources@atec.asn.au

Address: 275 Grand Junction Road, Ottoway 5013

Website: <https://atec.asn.au/contact>